Giorgio Linguanti's love of fine food began when working in a small shop in Sicily that specialised in products from the nearby Aeolian Islands. On arriving in Melbourne in 2004, with a love of food and speaking only Italian, he turned his hand to cheese making and in 2008 That's Amore was born.

That's Amore Cheese sources Australian milk that is transformed into a variety of artisan cheeses at Giorgio's purpose built facility in Melbourne. Traditional recipes and methods are used and all his cheeses are Halal Certified, suitable for vegetarians and free from preservatives and artificial colours.

"The key to cheese making is love! This is true for everything you do, not just for cheese making. If you do everything with love, the results will be obvious - they've got to be good! This is why my company's name, That's Amore, means That's Love." - Giorgio Linguanti

Stracciatella is found at the heart of every Burrata and is an indulgent combination of thin ribbons of mozzarella bathed in cream. Use to top pasta dishes, spread on crusty bread topped with tomato or avocado with a drizzle of balsamic or use to elevate the humble panino.
